Happy New Year--2003

We got through 2002 in pretty good shape.

Alan is kept busy at work on about five different projects (see Alan's work page) and playing music in a brass quintet, woodwind quintet, and a smattering of orchestras and folk-rock groups.

Diane has been working hard (too hard) building the Pathology Dept. at Kaiser San Francisco. At the end of the year, she finally decided she's just too tired to go on being chief of the department, so she's looking forward to stepping down from chiefdom sometime in early 2003, but probably not later than July.

Alan got recruited to be in a special orchestra, mostly professionals, to accompany the San Francisco Korean Master Chorale at a special concert celebrating the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first Koreans in America.

Here is Alan all dressed up in his freshly bought penguin suit (tux)

And he's got shoes so shiny, you need sunglasses to look at them.

Where's Alan? (Waldo?)

He's easier to spot in this picture...

Here we are after a pretty darn good performance of the 4th movement of

Here we are taking bows after a piece called "Korea Fantasy"

Beethoven's 9th Symphony.
Can you tell which horn part I played?

which required 6 horns.
